Institutional and System-Wide Innovations

B.F.A. in Writing and Applied Arts, UW-Green Bay. Launched Fall 2019. I am the founder, creator, and current Chair of this interdisciplinary “maker” major, which offers the only B.F.A. at UWGB, and the only B.F.A. in Writing in the UW-System. Students can declare emphases in Game Writing, Professional and Technical Writing, Editing and Publishing, or Community Storytelling. One of two fully all-campus degrees in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, this major is available for students at Sheboygan, Manitowoc, and Green Bay campuses—and beyond—via face-to-face and Distance Education modalities.

<https://www.uwgb.edu/writing/>

Successes:

- Year Five program enrollment (2023-24): 101 students, enrolled from all four UWGB campus locations
- Program growth: 20-25 new majors declared every year from 2019-2024, exceeding enrollment targets
- Hired four new tenure-track faculty with new-to-UWGB specializations: Game Writing, Multimodal and Interactive Storytelling, Essay and Nature Writing, and Professional and Technical Writing
- Added 11 new courses to Writing and Applied Arts B.F.A. major, 2023. Full catalog available here.
- Served as co-PI and developed, with six other faculty, Distance Ed modalities for core courses, with Provost’s office grant support
- Developed unique Graduating Senior Portfolio Review process, conducted via faculty committee
- Directed and served on Graduating Senior Portfolio Committees
- Sought out on-campus and community-based internship opportunities for students, including partnerships with the National Estuarine Research Reserve (copyediting documents for federal designation), Demiplane (role-playing game narratives), Golden House (grant writing), and Fox Cities Book Festival (publicity)
- Worked with Admissions and University Marketing on advertising campaigns, webpage redesign, videos
- Graduates have served as UW-Green Bay Commencement Speaker, placed into Ivy league graduate programs, and secured jobs with companies like Bloomsbury Publishing, Green Bay City Pages, The Business Times, ACI Learning, Uline
- 69 graduates as of December 2024

The Teaching Press at UW-Green Bay. In 2016, I received a Provost's One-Time Retention grant of $29,000 to purchase machinery and support development of a new student-run publishing house, which is dedicated to author-centered, community-engaged, collaborative book and print projects. Our first book launched Spring 2019. Two imprints launched in 2022. I am the Press founder, Publisher, and Director. <https://www.uwgb.edu/teaching-press/> (website) and <https://blog.uwgb.edu/teaching-press/> (latest news)

Successes:

Student Learning and Business Operations

- Trained, mentored, and employed 235+ undergraduate students and interns from 2019-present
- Teach 2-3 sections of ENG 424: Book Editing Practicum-The Teaching Press (enrollment: 20-25) per year, 2022-present
- Pay and manage top undergrad-staffed positions: Press Manager, Book Designer, Project Manager, Chief Copyeditor, Publicity Director, and Operations Director, 2019-present
- Led multiple undergraduate teams through all phases of book production and the establishment of a publishing business, including client engagement, book design, developmental project management, editing, copyediting, publicity, market research, press kit design, website/blog design, budgeting, operations, branding, workstation design, prototyping, printing, binding, and trimming 2019-present
- Created, in collaboration with UWGB Legal and Controller's office, our institution's first author contract, royalty payment system, and online system for ordering books
- Launched two imprints (branding developed by undergraduate interns), 2022
 - Hard-Penned Press, fee-for-services imprint—for author-subsidized editorial and printing services.
 - Mimi & Rupert Books, publishing imprint—for books that interlace art, image, craft, and voice.
- Placed books in Wisconsin independent bookstores, 2023
- Distributed books internationally in print and e-book format via Ingram Spark, 2023

Community Outreach for Young Readers and Writers

- Organized intern-led "Young Writers Book Launch" event with Sullivan Elementary's afterschool YMCA program, November 15, 2023, with support from The Einstein Project
- Planned intern-led activities in bookmaking for annual STEM Day Family celebration, Brown County STEM Innovation Center (1000+ attendees), April 2022 and 2023
